Interpretative Index
Volumes 1-6

By Keneston W. Landers, Jr.
Syracuse University

Lifelong Learning: The Adult Years (LL:AY) will be succeeded by a new AAACE publication, Lifelong Learning: An Omnibus of Practice and Research (LL:OPR), this fall. In its six years of publication LL:AY has printed articles covering a wide range of topics. In order to facilitate future use of this journal, an interpretative classification system has been developed. Thus, this interpretative index is printed as a resource to readers.

The interpretative classification system is based in part on the many areas of study and concern to the adult education professional. In addition, an initial analysis of the articles suggested some nature headings. The interpretative index consists of two sub-indices—a subject index and a title-by-volume index. Perhaps, the scheme developed for this index can be used by the new AAACE publication at the end of each volume year.
